Notes for John Linn:

[Presbyterian Church underwent a schism [about 1745 from the ``Great Awakening``, a religious transformation which began about 1738 by the Wesleys as well as George Whitefield]. Few denominations were more drastically affected by the great Awakening than the Presbyterians... Conservatives were contemptuous,, dubious.. and sure the church would degrade itself by diluting its message and making religion ``easy`` for the common man.. other Presbyterians, however, regarded Whitefield as a true and timely prophet... by 1745, this divergence of opinion had reached a stage of such virulence that the Presbyterian Church underwent a schism... the bitterness of dissention that divided the Presbyterian Church gradually abated and by 1758, the breach between the Old Side and the New Side was formally healed....Nether side ``won``, but the church that came together in 1758 was considerable different from the church that came together in 1745.... Committed to missionary enterprise, carried on almost wholly by American funds and by a native-born clergy, more and more of whom were coming from humble homes....Presbyteries ordered pastors to leave their congregations to make missionary journeys among the settlements...Young men who wished to enter the ministry were not ordained until they had visited the frontier.

Generation 2 (con't)

Notes for James Gettys:

In 1761, one of these early settlers, Samuel Gettys, established a tavern in the area. Just twenty-five years later, his son James had laid out a town of 210 lots with a central town square on the land surrounding the tavern. The town today is Gettysburg. At this time, Gettysburg was part of York County. But by 1790, the growing population of the area decided to separate from York County. _____ James Gettys, the founder of Gettysburg, sold his first plot of land in 1787 to John Troxell, Sr. In 1804, Mr. Troxell opened the Sign of the Buck tavern and roadhouse to accommodate those traveling to the western frontier of Pennsylvania and beyond. As our nation grew and Gettysburg became the county seat, this establishment grew to house more travelers. By 1863, the town of Gettysburg was booming with 2,400 residents and many businesses. The hotel, then known as the Union Hotel, served as a hospital for the wounded soldiers after the battle. Indeed, the events that transpired during those three long days in July forever changed the course of our nation's history, Gettysburg's history and this hotel's history. _____ 1785, James Gettys purchased 116 acres of his father's land including the tavern and laid out the town of Gettysburg, the seat of Adams County PA. _____ Lived where the town of Gettysburg now stands. James Gettys laid out the town in 1790, in anticipation that it would become the county seat of a new county. His expectations were realized in 1800, when Adams County was created out of the western part of York. He built the first house in the new town; it was used as a tavern for many years but was accidentally destroyed by fire in 1880. He was sheriff 1803-06, and represented the county in the Pennsylvania Legislature, 1807-08-09. He was a brigadier-general in the State Militia in 1812. He was a man of sound judgement and great business activity.

Notes for James Linn:

Linn, Rev. James, D.D., 1783-1868. Died in Bellefonte, Feb. 23, 1868, after a pastorate of fifty-eight years. James Linn was born in Sherman's valley, Cumberland (now Perry) Co., Pa., Sept. 4, 1783, and was one of seven children. His grandfather came over from Scotland in the early part of the last century, and was of solid Presbyterian stock. His father, John Linn, was born in Adams County, Pa., in the year 1749, was graduated at Princeton College in 1773, studied theology with Rev. Robert Cooper, and during his entire ministerial life, including a term of nearly forty-four years, was settled as the pastor of Centre Church, Sherman's valley. He died in 1820 in his seventy-first year. He was married to Mary Gettys, daughter [incorrect] of the founder of Gettysburg. Mr. Linn was graduated at Dickinson College in 1805, and studied theology with Rev. Joshua Williams, at Newville. He was licensed to preach the gospel Sept. 27, 1808, by the Presbytery of Carlisle. He himself considered it an honor of no small measure to have been licensed by such a body of ministers as then composed that Presbytery-" A noble band of venerable men, and men of talents."

Generation 3 (con't)

In the spring of 1809 he visited the congregations of Spruce Creek and Sinking valley, now in the bounds of Huntingdon Presbytery. From there he shortly after came to Bellefonte. The Presbyterian Church in this place had just been left vacant by the removal of the Rev. Henry R. Wilson to Carlisle. His preaching here and at Lick Run for a few Sabbaths resulted in unanimous calls from both churches, each for one-half of his time. The ordination and installation took place April 17, 1810, in the courthouse, which was then used as the place of worship. In this service the Rev. Mr. Coulter preached the sermon, and the Rev. Mr. Grier presided and gave the charge to the pastor.

In 1839, the Bellefonte Church wishing to secure his undivided labors, he was released from the Lick Run charge, and by a unanimous vote was chosen a second time as pastor in Bellefonte. In this relation he continued to the day of his death. In October of the year 1859, which marked a half-century in his pastorate, the Presbytery of Huntingdon celebrated the occasion by special exercises of great interest, holding their fall meeting in Bellefonte for this purpose. Shortly after this his strength began perceptibly to fail to such an extent that it was decided to relieve him from regular labors by calling a co-pastor. In the spring of 1861 the Rev. J. H. Barnard was called to the co-pastorate, and remained until 1866, and was succeeded by the Rev. Alfred Yeomans in December of the same year.

During his last illness his mind seemed to be wandering back to the scenes of his early life, about which he said so little in the days of his health ; and when asked if he was thirsty, he replied that he wanted a drink from "the old spring by the church," alluding to a spring near his father's church where he was wont to drink when a boy. His thirst is now satisfied at a still purer fountain, where those who drink shall not thirst again forever.

Dr. Linn was first married Feb. 28, 1811, to Jane Harris, who was the mother of six children, and who died Aug. 14, 1822. Four of her children, three sons and one daughter, survive their father. He married

Generation 3 (con't)

April 15, 1829, Isabella Henderson.

The labors of Dr. Linn in Bellefonte were greatly blessed. When he began his ministrations here there was no church building, and the membership of the church probably did not exceed fifty names. At Lick Run the services were held in a log building without windows, and with a hole in the roof to serve as an outlet for the smoke in winter from an open fire in the middle of the room. He was permitted to see the membership of the Bellefonte Church increased from fifty to two hundred and forty-eight.

His preaching ground extended originally from Mill Hall to the Little Juniata, and from the Seven Mountains to Clearfield. At a later day his charge reached from Julian Furnace, or Glenn's Meetinghouse, to the lower end of Bald Eagle valley, below Beech Creek ; also to the lower end of Nittany valley, and through its entire width. He expended much labor also in preaching at Horntown or Harrisonville. He outlived all but one of those who were adult church-members at the time of his settlement in Bellefonte, and was before his death baptizing the fourth generation.

Punctuality and fidelity to all professional engagements were peculiar traits of his character. He has been heard to say that throughout his entire active ministry he never failed but once in attending the meetings of Presbytery and Synod, and that one failure was occasioned by sickness in his family.

He took a very active interest in the cause of education, and the early years of his ministry taught the Bellefonte Academy, and was for many years president of the board of trustees. His labors in the temperance cause and in the interest of the Bible Society and Sabbath-schools were incessant all through the years of his long, active life. He was eminently hospitable, and his generosity spontaneous and unpretending.

There is a sublime eloquence in the career of such a man, and the reputation he won he bequeathed to enhance the dignity, honor, and usefulness of his fellow-laborers in the ministry.

His strong individuality, clear mind, and sound judgment commanded the respect of men of character, while his large-hearted hospitality, his genial humor, and his kind and cheerful disposition won upon all classes of the community, and made him a man of the largest influence. Yet though gentle, yielding, and forgiving in his temper almost to an extreme, his decision was uncompromising in all questions of principle. His zeal for the purity of the church savored of a past age of discipline. His promptness and diligence in carrying through whatever his official duty demanded is abundantly evidenced by the records of the Session in his own handwriting. His preaching was characterized by the pointed and impressive presentation of truth, and was doctrinal and practical rather than rhetorical. With a full round voice and a commanding presence, his personal advantages were more than ordinary. His manuscript sermons show thoroughness and accuracy in his preparations for the pulpit. During his earlier ministry he wrote and committed to memory, but more lately preached from his full manuscript. Dr. Linn's children by his first wife were Claudius B. Linn, of Philadelphia ; James Harris Linn, ironmaster (of the firm of McCoy & Linn), Hon. Samuel Linn; Anna, who died March 25, 1847, wife of John Irwin, Jr. ; Mrs. Jane Welch. His daughter by his last wife is Mrs. M. H. Wilson, widow of William P. Wilson, Esq. James Harris Linn died at Milesburg Iron-Works, April 5, 1876, aged sixty-one years, leaving a widow, a daughter of R. T. Stewart, Esq., deceased.

James Linn and Jane Harris had the following children:

- i. JAMES HARRIS⁴ LINN was born in 1815. He died in 1876 (buried Union Cemetery, Bellefonte, Centre, PA).
- ii. CLAUDIUS BUCHANAN LINN was born in 1818. He died in 1889 in Philadelphia, Philadelphia, PA (buried Laurel Hill Cemetery, Philadelphia, PA). He married LOUISA A. CLARK. She was born in 1815. She died in 1878 (buried Laurel Hill Cemetery, Philadelphia, PA).
- iii. SAMUEL LINN was born in 1820. He died in 1890. He married Augusta Moore in 1847. She was born in Carlisle, Cumberland, Pennsylvania.

Notes for Samuel Linn:

Hon. Samuel Linn.-Judge Linn is the fourth son of Rev. James Linn, D.D., who was for more than half a century the pastor of the Presbyterian Church of Bellefonte, and was born on the 20th day of February, 1820. His mother was a daughter of James Harris, one of the proprietors of the town, and a lady of great excellence of character. She died when the subject of this sketch was but two years of age, and hence his subsequent training was in the hands of his father, than whom there were few better qualified for the task of imparting such instruction as would be calculated to develop the latent ability and talent subsequently displayed by his son. In early life he manifested a taste for mechanics as a science, and had he been led to pursue this as a calling he would doubtless have excelled. In pursuance of this inclination, and being somewhat restive during the progress of his education in the primary schools, when only fifteen years of age he went to the State of Ohio with his uncle, James D. Harris, who was the principal engineer of the Pennsylvania and Ohio Canal, extending from New Castle to Akron. After remaining about six months in that locality, he returned and went with Mr. Harris to Towanda, in Bradford County, where he sought and obtained employment with a corps of engineers who were then engaged in exploring a route for the North Branch Canal beyond Pittston, now the site of the Lehigh Valley Railroad. He continued in this position for about five years, and, although a mere stripling, earned an enviable reputation, and one which would have done credit to many others more advanced in this vocation.

He commenced reading law with Bond Valentine in 1844, and after having attended the law school of Judge Reed at Carlisle, he returned to Bellefonte and pursued his course of reading with James T. Hale, and was admitted to the bar of Centre County in January, 1843.

He opened an office in Bellefonte, and in 1847 formed a partnership with James T. Hale, Esq., which was dissolved on the appointment of Mr. Hale to the judgeship of the Twenty-Fifth Judicial District in 1851, when he resumed the practice in his own name. In 1856 he associated with him W. P. Wilson, Esq., and continued practice until 1859, when he was elected president judge of the district composed of the counties of Centre, Clearfield, and Clinton.

As a judge his charges to the jury were clear and explicit, his decisions were marked by general acquiescence, and his sentences were just; but he was not satisfied with himself in the position, and resigned in May, 1868, and resumed practice in copartnership with A. O. Furst, Esq., which continued until Judge Linn's removal to Williamsport in 1869.

In 1857, Judge Linn published his analytical digest of parallel reference to cases adjudged in courts of Pennsylvania, a work involving an immense amount of labor and of incalculable value to his profession in the preparation of causes.

As a land lawyer Judge Linn has no superior in Pennsylvania, beside that he is one of the most eloquent of advocates, -eloquence not of manner, or of action, but of thought, clothed in the most beautiful, appropriate, and expressive language; eloquence brightened by his wit and enlivened by his humor, of which he has what would seem to be an inexhaustible fund.

Socially he is highly esteemed, and few men have a more happy faculty of relating anecdotes for the entertainment of friends.

He united with the Presbyterian Church while a law student at Carlisle, was elected an elder in the Presbyterian Church at Bellefonte, and frequently a representative in the high courts of the church. He was married Dec. 1, 1847, to Miss Augusta Moore, of Carlisle.

Generation 3 (con't)

- iv. ANN LINN was born before 1822. She died in 1847. She married JOHN IRWIN JR..
- v. JANE E. LINN was born before 1822. She died after 1868. She married UNK. WELSH.

Notes for Isabella Henderson:

Henderson, Jonathan K., Esq.-Daniel Henderson, the ancestor, was born, lived, and died in Chester County before the Revolution. He had four sons-David, Matthew, Joseph, and John-and two daughters. David was a member of the Philadelphia bar. His daughter Elizabeth married Wertmuller, a celebrated Swedish painter. Joseph removed to Washington County, Pa., in 1790. John was a captain in the Continental army, Third Pennsylvania; died in Washington County, Pa. Isabella married William Cowan ; their daughter married Samuel Morrison, of Lycoming County. The other daughter married a Fleming, of Lancaster County ; one of their daughters married Amos Slaymaker, of Lancaster County. Matthew removed to Carlisle, married Margaret, daughter of Dr. Jonathan Kearsley, who came from Dublin, and then removed to Shippensburg. He was deputy surveyor of part of Cumberland and all of Franklin County, and died April 8, 1796. He had seven sons-Daniel, Jonathan K., John, Matthew, Robert Cooper, Samuel, and Joseph-and four daughters,- Lydia, Jane, Eliza, and Isabella. Jonathan studied law in Lancaster, and in 1793 settled in Huntingdon, retired to the farm on Slab Cabin, now in Harris township, in 1806, and died there in 1828. Eliza married Robert Hays, of Bellefonte. AV. W. Hays, Esq., of the Interior Department at Washington, D. C, is their son. Isabella married Rev. James Linn, D.D., of Bellefonte. Joseph was a captain in the war of 1812, and a physician in Kishacoquillas valley, and member of Congress from Centre County District in 1833-37. John was a prominent physician in Huntingdon.
